Gift and Commission

The baptism of Jesus was not only the day when he had a special experience of God's favour; it was also the day when he begun his public ministry, when he publicly took on the role of God's servant. Jesus' baptism was both a grace and commission. As Peter announced to Cornelius in today's second reading, after his baptism Jesus went about doing good and curing all who had fallen into the power of the devil. Jesus' mission was characterised by a heightened awareness of the weak and the vulnerable. Our own baptism, like that of Jesus, was both a gift and a commission. In bestowing favour upon us, God at the same time calls us to become his servants. On the day of our baptism, we are commissioned as servants of God, after the example of Jesus. As God endowed Jesus with the Spirit so that he could bring true justice to the nations, at our baptism we were endowed with the same Spirit for the same purpose. In the power of the Spirit we are called to live in that same just way that Jesus lived. In the words of the first reading, baptism calls us to 'serve the cause of right'. That will involve for us, as it did for Jesus, taking care 'not to break the crushed reed, or quench the smouldering flame'. Those who are crushed for what ever reason, whose flame is barely flickering, are deserving of our greatest care and attention. We show that we really appreciate the gift of our baptism when we support the vulnerable and strengthen the weak, in our families, our communities and our society. This is our baptismal calling.

The Present Moment

It is necessary to be disengaged from all we feel and do in order to walk with God in the duty of the present moment. We must confine ourselves to the present moment without taking thought for the one before or the one to come. When we walk with God he will direct us and must replace every other guidance.
