Week-end Masses in Cloone and Aughavas: At a recent meeting of the Parish Pastoral Council in Cloone, I have asked members to discuss "do we need two masses in Cloone from June until December?"

The members expressed a view that we should retain the two masses. I have asked the Chairperson of Aughavas Parish Pastoral Council to ask the members "do we need two masses in Aughavas from January to June?"

The members present expressed the view that we should retain both masses. I have asked members of both Pastoral Councils to seek the views of the wider parish community. If you have any views on this matter, please talk to any member of the Parish Pastoral Council or to myself. While there is no immediate necessity to change, I feel it is important that this matter be discussed.

Diocesan Assembly: Following the April Meeting, delegates were invited to make submissions on how the Diocese might pursue the three priorities of lay formation. The main action points from the submissions were summarised as follows:

1. Youth

· There is a strong sense of the value of working with systems that already have connection with youth. These are primarily the schools and the families. Explore how best to tap into the capacity for peer ministry evident at the last Assembly. Maintain and develop diocesan youth programmes, including pilgrimages. Explore means of tapping into young people's energy for social action.

2. Family

· Make use of key inclusive moments to share the Good News – sacraments, seasonal moments. · Reach out to support families on key issues for them, such as relationships and bereavement. · Build parish capacity for parish family liturgy.

3. Lay formation

· There is a very strong sense that the time for change is upon us in the sense that we will not have priests on the ground in anything like the numbers that we have been used to. At the same time the implications of that for such things as parish liturgies may not have dawned on people. · There was a strong sense of the value of a pastoral rather than simply a theological approach to formation. Equip people for leadership. There was also a sense here of a differentiated approach that considers differing energies and capacities – some will be involved in more explicitly catechetical work, others administrative etc. · There is one point on tension in the overall. For most there is a sense of the church needing to embrace change – in the role of lay people, the role of women, how we reach out with our Good News. For some there is an emphasis on tradition – an expectation that people should understand and adhere to church teachings as we have known them.
