World Day of Prayer for the Sick, 11th February

Hear our prayer, Oh God, and heal the many illnesses that afflict us in body, mind and soul. Bring comfort to those who suffer. Bring consolation to those who despair. Bring strength to those of us who walk with the sick. Bring hope to all for whom the path to healing is long or may not end. Let us never forget your special care for the sick, that they may also know they are precious and loved. Amen.

*Take time, quality time. This means being ready to listen patiently and attentively to everything the other person wants to say. It requires the self-discipline of not speaking until the time is right. Instead of offering an opinion or advice, we need to be sure that we have heard everything the other person has to say. This means cultivating an interior silence that makes it possible to listen to the other person without mental or emotional distractions. Do not be rushed, put aside all of your own needs and worries, and make space. Often the other spouse does not need a solution to his or her problems, but simply to be heard, to feel that someone has acknowledged their pain, their disappointment, their fear, their anger, their hopes and dreams. How often we hear complaints like: 'He does not listen to me.' 'Even when you seem to, you are really doing something else.' 'I talk to her and I feel like she can't wait for me to finish.' 'When I speak to her, she tries to change the subject, or she gives me curt responses to end the conversation.' Many disagreements between couples are not about important things. Mostly they are about trivial matters. What alters the mood, however, is the way things are said or the attitude with which they are said. Pope Francis.

St. Francis of Assisi

If you have men who will exclude any of God's creatures from the shelter of compassion and pity then you will have men who will do likewise to their fellow men.
